

MacARTHUR HURLS THOUSANDS OF CRACK MARINES INTO A TRIPLE-PRONGED AMPHIBIOUS ASSAULT ON PORT OF INCHON; DRAMATIC MOVE AT ISOLATION

Objective of History-Making Landings is Communications Network

2 SEPARATE ASSAULTS

Land at Three Points Under Cover of Roaring Shell Fire

By Howard Handelman
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)
With Gen. MacArthur's forces on the Inchon Beachhead, Korea, Sept. 15—(INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur hurled thousands of crack U. S. Marine troops today into a triple-pronged amphibious assault on Seoul's port of Inchon in a dramatic move to isolate and score a quick kill against the North Korean invasion army in South Korea.

Objective of the history-making landings, personally led by MacArthur, was to over-run the vital Seoul-Inchon-Kimpo communications network through which the bulk of the enemy's forces and supplies have been moving to the southeast Korean battlefields.

Leathernecks belonging to the newly-organized U. S. Tenth Corps were sent ashore on South Korea's west coast, 165 miles behind the Red battle lines, in two separate assaults eleven hours apart.

They landed at three points under cover of roaring shell fire from cruisers and destroyers of a 260-ship United Nations armada and an umbrella of carrier-borne planes that blasted and raked Inchon's defenses.

Armed with scaling ladders to storm enemy ramparts, the hard-hitting Marines charged across treacherous mud flats sown with Communist mines and traversable only at high tide.

The mud, the fast-running tides and the ocean currents off shore made Inchon one of the most formidable strongholds the Marines have ever assaulted in their long, action-packed history.

Nevertheless, the resolute Leathernecks swept into the city from the north, south and center after making their initial landing at the small island of Wolmi, linked to Inchon by a 1,000-yard causeway.

The Marines came in wave after wave of assault boats to what they called "Red Beach" in the first big scale United Nations offensive of the Korean conflict.

Under the eye of Gen. MacArthur, who watched the action from the bridge of his command ship, a small unit of the U. S. First Marine Division opened the landing operation at dawn by storming ashore at Wolmi Island.

The island, which is small but strategically important because it juts directly west from Inchon into the Yellow Sea, was captured with surprising ease.

Within a half hour after the Marines hit the Wolmi beach, the Stars and Stripes fluttered triumphantly over the island. All enemy resistance was ended in one hour and 28 minutes and Wolmi was securely in American hands.

Many of the Red troops on Wolmi threw down their arms and gave themselves up without a fight.

The more difficult two-pronged attack on Inchon itself began one hour and 21 minutes before darkness fell. Inchon's 31-foot tide had

COL. A. M. HERITAGE TELLS LANGHORNE LIONS CLUB OF PLANS FOR PROTECTION OF LIFE AND PROPERTY IN TIME OF DISASTER

LANGHORNE, Sept. 15—Colonel A. M. Heritage, deputy coordinator of the Bucks County Civil Defense Council, appeared before Langhorne Lions Club at its weekly dinner session in the Soby Post country club home, here, last evening, to address the service club men.

Col. Heritage was introduced by Mr. Davis, following a brief club session which was presided over by Carman Vansant.

Col. Heritage spoke as follows: "It is with pleasure that I come here tonight to talk to you on a subject so serious, yet so interesting, so large in scope, yet so small in detail."

We are gathered here to give serious consideration to the problem of "Safety of our own lives and property in time of disaster." The subject sounds like a study in insurance and in reality that is just what it is.

We are planning how best to protect ourselves and property from disaster both from without and within our county borders.

First let us look at the "Without County" border problem. Should a disaster occur to our neighbors beyond our county limits we would have to protect ourselves from being destroyed by multitudes of terror-stricken people over-running us with no regard for our well being. (This is Phase I.)

Disasters are peculiar in their nature. They seldom give much warning. They occur at any hour around the clock. They terrify the most stout-hearted. They play almost unbelievable and fantastic pranks. Therefore it is our job to see that our arms are bright and our storehouses for defense are well equipped and in good order.

Bucks County Civil Defense Council has its tables of organization made up and is now writing its plan for your protection.

Much has been said and written about the "A" bomb. Please remember, my fellow citizens, there are hundreds of other hazards just as deadly or more so than this weapon, although they may be not so quick in their action.

Health is the greatest asset man has in this world of ours. We must therefore guard it above everything else. Disease is the greatest destroyer of all things, the easiest to contract and the hardest to resist.

As we visualize the problem pertaining to Phase One there will be six distinct classes of people to be taken care of in a "Without County Limits" disaster.

These classes are:
a. Hospitalized persons.
b. Incarcerated persons.
c. Insane persons.
d. Sick and wounded persons.
e. Panic-stricken persons.
f. Homeless persons.

These unfortunate and unhappy people must be received with warmth and kindness but also with strict discipline. Once the barriers are let down and these people get out from under control, they will become a most serious menace to both themselves and to us.

It is therefore our grave duty to lay our plan carefully and thoughtfully and select leaders to carry it out with dispatch. These key personnel must be given authority to enforce the plan once it is approved by proper authority.

Uniform clothing need not be prescribed for our leaders but some form of distinctive insignia must be furnished them as a badge of authority.

Assistants to replace these leaders must be named in advance to insure no vacancies occurring in time of emergency.

Helpers to carry out details of our plan must be listed and addresses and telephone numbers should be recorded.

Special equipment to enable the helpers to function must be procured and held in readily accessible places secure from molestation and theft through sabotage.

Motor cars, ambulances, jeeps, bicycles and motorcycles must be stationed where they can be relied upon in case of need.

Before proceeding further on the subject of equipment and supplies, I wish to digress and say a few words about personnel.

The Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, upon receipt of a request from the President of the U. S. to start action to protect the people and property of our State, along with a similar action to be taken in all other states, named The Honorable Vincent A. Carroll, Chairman, Committee on Civil Defense of Pennsylvania.

After naming several prominent men in our State as his advisors, he named the President Judge in each county as county co-ordinator. In our County of Bucks, Judge Hiram H. Keller is co-ordinator and I am his deputy. Our organization, which is named County Defense Council has a steering board consisting of eight division chiefs and six especially qualified citizens, to advise Judge Keller in carrying out his mission. We also have an executive, Mr. L. Knickerbocker Davis, who is chief of the administrative section. Each division chief has a staff of from ten to twenty persons to assist him in carrying out his responsibility.

Each Municipality (Borough and Township) has a director of civil defense with a staff to carry out his operation orders.

So much for organization; now let us get back to the problem of supplies.

First-aid supplies, clothing, tents, cots, blankets, and light staple food such as canned soups and cereals must be on hand and readily available. Water and especially sewage facilities must be ready for use. Training of personnel should start today to qualify those expected to fill key positions.

The best thoughts we have been able to muster all point in one direction; namely to establish a welcome to our stricken countrymen right at the gates of our county.

We have 17 portals, all main highways leading into our county and it is at each one of these entrances that we aim to establish a

MARINE ASSOCIATION AMAZES CROWD

Wonderful Demonstration of Efficiency and Completeness of Equipment
PORTER IN CHARGE

Mobilization of Bucks County Marine Association took place at the Market street wharf last evening, with a display of equipment, evacuation from Burlington Island, showing of artificial respiration, drill, and a display of lights on the river. Robert Porter, chief of the Association, directed the activities, with the assistance of Frank Mitchell.

Chief Porter welcomed the public to see the Marine Association in action and to view the equipment. He stated that the association is made up of all volunteers who do not receive any pay for their work. "They spend a lot of time in training for any emergency and also keeping their equipment in condition. The first thing on the program will be the evacuation of patients from Burlington Island. There will be three men in a boat, two men to man the boat and the other will be the patient."

Twelve boats put out from the Bristol side for Burlington Island. Chief Porter stated this is the way it would be done if the emergency ever arises that evacuation would be needed from any island or by boat from any point. This is part of the civilian defense program.

Artificial respiration was the next demonstration with all units taking part in showing how it should be done, after which a display of lights was played upon the river making it just as light as day.

The equipment displayed was the best to be seen at any place and all units are very proud of their equipment. A lot of the equipment is that which the members built and represents a lot of time and work by the members of the different units.

The following units took part in the program: Bucks County Rescue Squad, Croydon Fire Company No. 1, Headley Manor Fire Company, Cornwells Fire Company, Goodwill Fire Company, Bristol Fire Company No. 6, Bristol: Washington Crossing and Titusville Union Rescue Squad, Trevose Heights Fire Company No. 1, Torresdale Rescue Squad, Philadelphia: Liberty Rescue Squad, of Trenton, N. J.; Allentown Fire Company, of Allentown, N. J., and the Union Fire Company of Cornwells Heights.

After the display the association went to the fire house of Bristol Fire Company No. 3 where refreshments were served to the members.

There was a large crowd of spectators on hand and all were amazed at the efficiency of the units and the completeness of the equipment.

To Serve Refreshments During H. S. Activities

The Mothers Association, Bristol public schools, held its first meeting of the season on Wednesday evening, in the high school cafeteria with Mrs. Walter Cooper presiding.

It was decided to purchase one dozen sweat shirts for the girls athletes.

A committee of volunteers was chosen to serve refreshments during activities to be held on the high school field during this term. Plans were made for a card party to be held in the high school cafeteria on Sept. 27. Officers of the association will be in charge.

Pinocchio was played with high scores listed by Mrs. Anna Liberator, Mrs. Stanley Keers, Mrs. Earl McEuen, Mrs. George Shire and Mrs. Samuel School. Ice cream, cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Morici and her committee. At the October meeting Mrs. Robert Bower and Mrs. Joseph Whyaft will have charge of entertainment, and Mrs. McEuen and Mrs. P. DiLorenzo will be in charge of refreshments.

3M Local Manager Addresses Rotarians

"The Worker As An Owner In Corporate Enterprise" was the topic discussed by Robert N. Wolfe, manager of the Bristol plant of Minnesota Mining & Mfg. Co., when he spoke to fellow Rotarians at the Elks' Home yesterday afternoon.

"Although we, at Minnesota Mining & Mfg. Co. believe in the employee stock purchase plan, the program will require a long-time evaluation to determine its true merits," Wolfe said. "Up to this time the program, which was first by a Connecticut firm in the late 1890s, has not proved materially successful."

"In the early 1900s the plan gained momentum until some 200 top-flight industries adopted the program by the 1920s. And then with the 1929 crash the plan was practically discarded. Today there is a new wave of popularity toward this program."

"The key to the present post-war plan, however, is conservatism," Wolfe pointed out.

"In our own organization we are studying closely all aspects of the program. We offered 75,000 shares of stock on a preferential price basis to our employees. Approximately 35,000 shares were contracted for by some 2700 of our approximately eligible 7000 employees. Limitations were put on the number of shares an employee could buy, and we believe our program will work out well," the speaker concluded.

Guests were present for the meeting from Lockport, N. Y., Haddonfield, N. J., Boyertown and Trevose, with president Raymond Sobatzki in charge.

SEVERAL CASES ARE HEARD BY COURT

Bristol Man Pleads Guilty To Charge of Drunken Driving

A MORRISVILLE CASE

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 15—Roy Houser, 52, 259 Monroe street, Bristol, who is reported $168 in arrears in a support order and pleaded guilty to drunken driving, was sentenced by President Judge Hiram H. Keller to serve one year in the County Prison.

President Judge Keller, who said to the defendant he had no right to spend his money on drinks when his family needed his aid, commented: "You have no business hanging around bars and taprooms." The Court may parole the defendant at the expiration of two months.

A Bristol policeman, John Dugan, who arrested the defendant June 19, testified the defendant was involved in a three-car accident, two of which were parked and his car struck.

The defendant paid the damages to the other two motorists. Alfred Romani, 33, Trenton, N. J., a Pennsylvania Railroad clerk, who pleaded guilty to assault and battery, was fined $200 and directed to pay the costs of prosecution by Judge Keller. He allegedly assaulted a Morrisville man.

After hearing the prosecutrix, who was his wife, and the defendant, Howard A. Weissinger, 45, Croydon, who pleaded guilty to assault and battery July 9, testify, President Judge Keller ordered the case continued and an investigation made.

The prosecutrix, Mary Weissinger, 41, who is crippled and the mother of seven children, testified her husband beat her July 9, after they got into an argument concerning one of their daughter's girl friends.

Judge Keller directed Miss Helen Young, of the Probation Department, to make an investigation. A fine of $25 and costs was imposed by Judge Biester on John A. Cole, of 626 Court C, Terrace, Bristol, after the defendant had pleaded guilty to failure to stop his automobile at the scene of an accident on Beaver Dam road, on Aug. 2nd.

BRISTOL BLOOD DONORS END SUCCESSFUL YEAR

No Drownings Occurred At Silver Lake During Past Summer

128 TRANSFUSIONS

The Bristol Blood Donors life-guard unit has completed another successful season at Silver Lake without a fatality. The life guards on several occasions prevented possible drownings by their alertness. During the summer months they also treated numerous bathers for cuts, abrasions and other injuries.

This work of humanity was made possible by the generous donations of the public during the drive last spring to provide the bathers of Bristol and surrounding communities with a protected bathing beach.

The Blood Donors special policemen under the direct supervision of Chief of Bristol police, Linford Jones, did a fine job of keeping cars and other vehicles off the beach for further protection of the bathers. They also kept all roads open leading to and from the beach in case of an emergency. They kept rowdiness on the crowded beach down to a minimum all summer.

During the past fiscal year just completed, members of the Bristol Blood Donors gave a total of 128 blood transfusions to patients in various hospitals in Philadelphia, Trenton, Abington and surrounding towns and counties. This is an average of nearly 11 transfusions per month or about 5500 cubic centimeters of blood per month.

The Blood Donors take this opportunity to inform the public that they are subject to call at any time from any hospital.

ECONOMIC UPSURGE

Now that summer, to all practical purposes, has ended, the last prolonged holiday weekend has been taken in the nation's stride, schools have reopened and the college term is getting under way, there is an economic upsurge such as has been seldom seen.

Unemployment, which was a concern of many of the worrywarts a few months ago, has all but disappeared under the impact of the war in Korea. Factory output of military and civilian goods is limited only by materials and manpower available. Markets are no headache to sales managers as production of virtually every industry is in demand as never before.

Dislocations of civilian production are expected by industry as the government releases war orders at an ever-increasing tempo. A gradual shift from a civilian to a war economy is under way. Automobile production has declined approximately 15 per cent in the summer all-time high. Farther contraction, as the industry switches to war orders and steel for civilian output becomes more scarce, is in the cards.

But the automobile factories are turning out more automobiles than at any time prior to World War II and will continue to do so, barring all-out war. In other industries a similar situation exists. Civilian output was never higher, but there is a tremendous demand that absorbs it readily.

The year enters its final phase with business in the midst of a war boom. Inflation continues to rule the economy. What the future will bring depends, of course, on the gods of war.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

The National Psychological Strategy Board is something new. Its job is to coordinate the work of all government agencies issuing propaganda for consumption abroad, and to decide what the propaganda is to be. Thus if U. S. planes drop leaflets in Korea, the story they tell will be one that has been worked out by experts, not dashed off by a busy general who knows more about fighting people than persuading them.

The new board's name does not contain the word "propaganda," to which many Congressmen have a high incidence of resistance. But what is propaganda except advertising? Advertising is something that Americans are good at. Whether it is termed propaganda, psychological strategy, or something else, it is advertising.

This country has the truth on its side, and it's high time a start was made in out-advertising Russia. It must seem strange to persons in other lands who are lukewarm in opposing communism that a Russian named Malik is permitted to broadcast lies about the United States while standing on United States soil. This country's new propaganda machine will have a sizable job in concocting an explanation that will sound convincing.

welcome camp. These camps are to be temporary shelters with the most meagre accommodations as we hope to return at least 80 per cent of our visitors within 3 days. Those unfortunates who cannot start on their pilgrimages home in three days will be removed to more adequate, better equipped camps further up or down county as the case may be.

These intermediate refuges are to be set up to care for the remaining 20 per cent on a three-week basis, during which time it is hoped to have relocated all but the most serious cases.

As a last resort to take care of the hospitalized, the incarcerated, the insane and the homeless, we aim to set up a camp on county owned property to afford shelter for a period, not to exceed three months.

The Bucks County Council Defense Plan calls for the removal of these defenseless persons after three months to some station or stations to be named by the State authorities at Harrisburg.

In closing my thoughts on Phase One I wish to say we are working with all agencies such as the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, Boy and Girl Scouts, civic organizations, churches, labor unions, police, fire and hospitals, asking their aid to shoulder the burden of protecting Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public and their daughter Alice.

At some date which will be in the near future you will be given a preview of Phase Two, namely how it is considered best to care for ourselves if and when we Bucks Countians are bombed out.

5 GO TO HOSPITALS

Bucks County Rescue Squad yesterday took the following to hospitals: Edward Merkel, from the Robinson nursing home, also John Hennessy, Newportville, and David Kenney, Bristol Heights, to Abington hospital; baby Carol Hermann, Bristol Terrace, to Mercy-Douglass hospital, Phila.; Charles Gibson, Bristol, to St. Francis hospital, Trenton, N. SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Disappointing . . . the sora season, which opened September 1st, has been a flop for local hunters who hunt this little migratory bird. Four different parties who hunt the River marshlands in the Bristol area reported a total of 15 birds jumped on 2 different days. Rail-birds, which become legal quarry today, will probably not brighten the picture too much as far as their abundance in nearby marshes and flats is concerned.

Improving . . . Silver Lake is beginning to produce some nice large-mouth bass. For the last several years catches have been conspicuous by their absence, but the last few weeks has seen several nice fish (in the 2-pound class) hooked and landed at the Lake.

Date to remember . . . Sunday, September 21—Annual Outing of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association, on the Club's trap-shooting grounds, west of Silver Lake.

Violations costly . . . Pennsylvania hunters are no doubt as good sportsmen as those of other states, but a million gunners and an excellent corps of enforcement officers combine to compile an astonishing number of game law prosecutions in the Keystone State.

During the Game Commission's last fiscal year, 6107 game law violators were successfully prosecuted. Fines collected totaled $206,888.35, which brings the case average to almost $33.00. Possession of deer in closed season was the most prevalent major violation; hunting without resident license and possessing loaded firearms in vehicles led the lesser penalty list.

Need for conservation . . . an excellent editorial, written by Howard H. Michaud, a conservation instructor at Purdue University, appeared in the August "Angler," the Fish Commission's magazine. Following are excerpts from the professor's discourse:

"In spite of the most idealistic regard man may have for the natural environment and its varied flora and fauna, there remains the fact that human need dominated our behavior with relation to the landscape. Great civilizations developed in favorable geographical areas of the world and frequently fell as a result of a failure to recognize the affinity to their local resources.

"The current question as to how long the present world civilization can survive on the basis of available food for the earth's increasing population is highly debatable. It seems more important to foster wise use and management of natural resources on the basis of common wisdom for the establishment of a sound economy. Good husbandry of the soil, the forest, waterways, wildlife, and other resources is a reflection of high moral purpose. Wasteful depletion of the fertile soils, indiscriminate cutting of the forests, streams bursting with liquid filth, diminishing wildlife, and general despoliation of the landscape mirror the results of deterioration of human character."

Many uses . . . the tiny lead shot pellets that spell Fall to millions of duck hunters spend the rest of the year glamorizing Hollywood stars, performing humanitarian duties in hospitals, helping radio send chills up your spine, catch fish, clean silverware in restaurants, are used in the counter-balance of scales and serve in many other useful and ingenious ways.

Lead shot pellets are made by streaming molten lead through a perforated pan that giggles the pellets into drops that form into spheres before they strike water 154 feet below. From a shot shell they fly an average of about 120 feet to hit the target if the hunter points his shotgun straight.

While performing their extra curricular duties, shot pellets travel in the very best circles. Evening gowns worn by Hollywood stars have shot pellets sewn into the hemlines to make them hang more alluringly. In hospitals bags of shot are used to provide traction in healing broken arms and legs. The counter poises of scales contain shot. Larger sizes of shot are used as sinkers on fishing lines. Modern radio sound effects men roll shot on drum heads to simulate the rumble of cannon and drop them on inflated bladders to imitate thunder or the roar of the surf.

Working models of boats frequently use shot as ballast and textile finishing plants tumble samples of cloth in soapy water with shot pellets to simulate wear in laundering tests. Shot is also used in the cowboy's quirts and in the policeman's blackjack and in children's toys in which they must be jiggled into holes or through a complicated labyrinth. Today's most popular container for shot, however, is the conventional shotgun shell and when the wild fowl begin to fly, shot pellets will be keeping them close company.

HUNTER-WILSON WINS OVER LEEDOM NINE

Every player on the Hunter-Wilson softball team had at least one hit last evening as the distillery workers trounced the Leedom's softball aggregation, 13-1, in a Bristol Industrial League fracas on the winners' field.

The Hunter-Wilson boys rapped out a total of 18 safe hits with Tom Wood getting three singles out of four trips to the plate. No homers were hit but Ennis had a pair of doubles and "Ed" Mount had a triple and single.

"Spike" Naylor allowed the rug-makers four scattered hits, three of which came in the first inning. After Ludwig started the second inning with a hit, Leedom's failed to make a safe blow off Naylor.
